NEWS OF THE DAY.

Republican Harmony in Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 27.—The members of the national Republican committee, Messrs. N. Huston of Indiana and John C. Chaffee of Florida, who came here first to assist in adjusting the differences existing in the ranks of the Republican party of Louisiana, have been quite successful in their mission. The basis of settlement as follows: The state central committee has been increased from 85 to 110, the twenty-five new members to be selected by the Warmouth faction, but from and after this date no member of the state committee shall be an office holder. The Warmouth faction is to disband its organization and committees in every district in the state and support the regular Republican organization hereafter known as the Lily-white and faction.

One was Enough

ATLANTA, Sept. 27.—Hon. W. J. Atkinson, chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Georgia, in reply to Gen. Weaver's published address, in which he claimed that he was not accorded a fair hearing while in Georgia and that himself and party were treated with rotten eggs at his places, says that the address was misleading. He claims that General Weaver was disappointed at the People's party weakness in Georgia and wished to cancel his engagements throughout the state. Mr. Atkinson admits that one egg was thrown at the party by a negro but that he was promptly arrested and punished.

Cleveland's Visitors

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., Sept. 27.—Mr. Cleveland entertained today Actor Joseph Jefferson, who will soon leave Buzzard's Bay for the winter.

Mr. Isaac Henderson, author of "Agatha," was also a caller. It is now expected that Mr. Cleveland will make a visit to New York this week, possibly leaving here Thursday night. He will only be absent from here a few days. Mr. Cleveland has been in receipt of many congratulatory telegrams today regarding his letter of acceptance.

A Political Joint Debate

BEATRICE, Neb., Sept. 27.—Lorenzo Crounse and Chas. H. Vanwyck, Republican and Populist candidates for governor, began a series of joint debates here tonight. Three thousand people heard the debate. There will be seven more of these debates at other points in the state. J. Sterling Morgan, Democratic candidate for governor, asked to be allowed to participate and make a third angular discussion, but the Populist state committee refused.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 27.—The People's party state convention was called to order in this city today by Henry A. Hickes of New York city, chairman of the national committee. Charged with Incendiarism

ST. JOHNS, N. B., Sept. 27.—Felix Renaud, son of Collector-of-customs Renaud, ex member of parliament, has been arrested with another young man charged with incendiarism by which the town of Bucktouche was destroyed. It is stated that the fire was started to destroy a large quantity of smuggled liquor from St. Pierre which the Dominion officials were on the scent of, and which was stored at Bucktouche. So closely were the parties having the liquor watched that they resorted to the expedient of destroying which incidentally destroyed the whole town. When the sheriff was taking Renaud and his companion to jail he was fired on when passing through some woods by members of the smuggling band, but escaped without injury. The people of the village of Bucktouche are terrorized and dare not give expression to their suspicions.

The Jesuits Election

ROME, Sept. 27.—The report that the Jesuit general had already been elected proves to have been premature. Large numbers of Jesuits, who came to Rome by special train to Loja, about twenty miles from Granada, Spain, and the election until it finally will take place in that city. The delegates have decided to exclude candidates from the larger European states and to choose the general from some small country like Belgium, Holland or Switzerland. The exact date of the election is kept secret.

NEW CHOLERA CASES,

The Disease Breaks Out on the Steamship Palmonia

FIVE PERSONS ARE STRICKEN

One Already Dead from the Pestilence—Renewed Precautions Against Its Spreading in Hamburg—The Water Caused Deaths

QUEBEC, Sept. 27.—The development of a case of cholera on board the steamship Palmonia in the Hamburg-American line at this port caused a stir among the health officials here. Two children died last night and one man died today. The bodies were transferred today to the Stanislas Menier, aged 8, died this morning. Doctors Jenkins and Drolet say and to night that the disease should certainly be cholera.

The Palmonia is expected to arrive here from Liverpool and placed on Hoffmann's Island. There are 900 children.

Why Hamburg Suffered.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The Times says the Hamburg calamity was painfully due to preventable causes. Notwithstanding the generally accepted belief that Hamburg's sanitary system is woefully deficient and that cleanliness is not one of the cardinal virtues of the city, in some respects Hamburg has every reason to be proud of its sanitation. There is no poverty in the city and no overcrowding, while the cleanliness of even the lower classes is exemplary. An efficient system of drainage exists and the air and soil and general arrangements of the cemeteries are exceptionally good.

But all this is outweighed by the monstrous evils which have been a standing shame for many years. Hamburg is overshadowed by a dirty river on one side and a dirty stagnant lake on another. A network of filthy canals connect with both the river and lake. The canals are utterly abominable. The water in them is black and motionless, covered with foul scum, while horrible bubbles burst, throwing forth a terrible stench. Lofty buildings, rising sheer from the polluted beds surround these canals and effectually impede the action of the air. The waters run low in August and the putrid slime was left to swelter in the broiling sun.

The Times goes on to say that the population was not content to live on a soil soaked with liquid manure and breathe air charged with poisonous emanations. In addition their water supply is drawn from the Elbe, into which the sewage is discharged. This water mixed with sewage without a pretense of purification, is returned to the houses and used for drinking. Its passage through the water works only serves to make the nauseous abomination filthier and more noxious than before.

The water works are simply particularly filthy ponds of muddy water, filled with slimy weeds and an offensive greenish black deposit. These ponds contain shoals of foul feeding fish. The dirt of years clings to the pipes and settles in the basins, in which insects, beetles, sticklebacks, crabs, snails and worms make their homes. It may be added here, however, that since the outbreak of cholera the Hamburg authorities have made arrangements by which the city will be supplied with pure water by the Altona Water company, and that when the filthy water is now used for drinking purposes it is thoroughly boiled. Some of the large breweries have enormous quantities of water which they give away, while the city authorities have regular depots for the distribution of boiled water.

FIVE MINUTES' EXERCISE.

A Man May Find Ample Gymnasium Apparatus in His Walking Stick

There are a good many men who know they need some physical exercise daily, but who put off beginning it from year to year on account of the time they think it would take away from their business hours. Few men seem to be aware that five minutes spent daily or even three times a week in exercises properly selected for bringing out all the principal muscles of the body are sufficient to set the blood coursing freely to the extremities, to stimulate the heart, to massage the bowels, to stir up the liver, to strengthen the limbs, to straighten the shoulders and increase the capacity of the lungs.

This is a good deal to claim for five minutes' exercise, and seems to suggest the use of elaborate gymnastic apparatus. It is not too much, as has been proved, and all the apparatus required is an ordinary walking stick. Elaborate systems of exercise look promising of results at the first glance, but as they consume time busy men generally drop them after a few trials.

Mr. C. P. Lenhart, physical instructor of the Manhattan Athletic club, who is a graduate of a medical college, but abandoned his practice of curing diseases and devoted his energies for the last ten years to the prevention of them by means of physical culture and the proper observance of hygienic rules, and who has met with marked success in that line and is himself a striking example of well developed manhood, recommends the following exercises to busy men on rising in the morning or just before going to bed at night in order that all the organs of the body may perform their natural functions.

For the upper part of the arms. Grasp the cane firmly at both ends with the hands and hold it across the chest, letting the middle of the cane rest on the breast, just under the chin. Drop the hands forward and down to the full length of the arms rapidly and return to position on the chest, accentuating the upward movement. Continue this for thirty seconds. Holding the cane as before, push the arms straight above the head full length, taking long, full breaths. Continue this for thirty seconds longer.

"If the arms are poorly developed this may be repeated after the other exercises are completed. When the arm is doubled up so that the fist is near the shoulder, the biceps ought to measure about two inches more in circumference than the forearm.

"For the muscles of the sides. With the arms at full length above the head and the hands grasping the cane as in the end of the last exercise, swing from side to side as far as possible, time, thirty seconds.

"Here pause and take two long, deep breaths of five seconds each.

"To strengthen the muscles of the back and rid the abdominal muscles of fat. Holding the cane as in the last position at arm's length above the head, bend forward and bring the cane as near the floor as possible without bending the knees or elbows, then swing as far backward as possible without losing your balance. Do this briskly for thirty seconds.

"This will make a large waist small if persisted in. It is good for dumbbells also and will help those who bend over a desk all day.

"To strengthen the forearm. Grasp the cane in the middle with both hands extended straight and level with the shoulders. Then twist the cane back and forth like the spokes of a wheel for twenty seconds." New York Recorder.

A Terrible Death Punishment

In England during the reign of Henry VIII the public mind became greatly excited by a series of poisonings, and parliament enacted a law making it a case of death by boiling. This law was on the statute books about sixteen years. It was made retroactive so as to take in a case that chiefly prompted the enactment—that of Richard Rose, otherwise Coke, the Bishop of Rochester's cook, who poisoned seventeen persons, two of whom died. Coke was boiled at Rochester. The execution was attended with peculiar cruelty as Coke was put into a caul iron of cold water and gradually cooked to death.

A few years later in March 1542 a young woman named Margaret Davy was punished in a similar way on a conviction of poisoning. The public were not satisfied as to her guilt and, notwithstanding the comparatively slow travel of news in those days, the story of Margaret Davy's trial and punishment soon spread through the kingdom and aroused universal horror. Boiling to death remained on the statute books, however, as long as Henry reigned, perhaps because the monarch himself had a dread of being poisoned. Immediately after his death parliament repealed the law.—Pittsburg Leader.

A Land Cleaning Machine.

A novel way of promoting the fertilization of land by the utilization of its weed growth is adopted in a new land cleaning machine. The principle of the machine is to root up all the weeds, scrub, etc., and pass them at once through a double blast fire by means of a traveling engine. The frame is mounted on four traveling wheels and carries a small steam engine on the right of which is a blower. On its left is a brick hearth fitted in an iron frame, which forms a fire retainer.

The weeds are conducted to the fire by a gradual incline and after they have passed through a fire retainer, which is kept at an intense heat by the blast of the blower, they are deposited on the soil. The engine with which, it is claimed, from four to eight acres a day can be cleaned, can be had from six to eight horsepower, and with the machine requires two men when in operation.—New York Telegram.

An Odd Use for a Coffin.

Twenty-five years ago, when Mr. Karplake was intimated to the house of commons by the people of Colchester, he was accustomed to make that before the election he made a purchase at every shop in the town, "even at the undertaker's," he would add. Having ascertained that the man had nothing but coffins, Mr. Karplake ordered one to be sent to his London residence. His wife naturally remonstrated with him. "Very well," he is reported to have replied, "very well; I'll have it taken down to my chambers. It will do very well to put 'Beaven' in—'Beaven' being the name of some thirty volumes of law reports.—London Tit-Bits.

Dublin's Red Haired Club.

The Red Haired club of Dublin was a society which barred out all where the hair covering was not of the most pronounced auburn. In order that no one could gain admission by false pretenses it was acquired at the initiation of each man that the applicant wash his hair and whiskers in hot soda and water. This effectually took out any "dye" that might have been used. It is said that this extraordinary club is to be established in the Irish capital.—Million.

Lincoln's Gaze Nest Home.

Near the graveyard where Lincoln's father and stepmother rest, seven miles south of Charleston, Ills., in a place then known as Goose Nest, the Lincolns made their final settlement on removing from Indiana. Here Abe bore Lincoln helped his father in "getting settled," as they called it. He helped him build a log cabin, and cleared for him a patch of ground, and when he saw him "under headway" in the new country bade him goodby and started north afoot. He found employment not far from Springfield, Ills., where the active part of his early life was spent. Though he did not linger long in the Goose Nest cabin, he was there long enough to stamp his individuality on every heart for miles around, and many are the stories told of his sojourn among these people. It was my lot to be born and reared a few miles from the early home of the Lincolns. I was shown a bridge he helped to build and many other relics of his boyhood days.

One very old man told me that he once rode up to Thomas Lincoln's cabin and inquired if he could spend the night there. He was informed that the house afforded only two beds, and one of them belonged to a son who was then at home, but if he would get the consent of this boy to make him as a bedfellow he could stay. The stranger dismounted and soon found the six foot boy in the back yard lying on a board resting. The boy consented and the man slept with him that night. The boy was Abraham Lincoln and the other never tires of telling how he spent the night with the future president.—Century.

Mythical Horses

Pegasus ("born near the source of the ocean") was the winged horse of Apollo and the Muses. Bellerophon rode this animal when he charged the Chimera.

Sleipnir ("the black horse of Odin") had eight legs, and could carry his master on sea as well as land. This animal is believed to typify the wind, which blows from eight principal points.

Al Borak ("the lightening") was the horse commissioned by Gabriel to carry Mohammed to the seventh heaven. He had a human face and the wings of an eagle. Every step he took was equal to the farthest range of human vision.

According to Thessalian legend, the first horse was miraculously brought forth by Neptune striking a rock with his trident.—St. Louis Republic.

Brazilian Apple Blossoms

During the season of apple blossoms I have driven about the country a great deal and made notes of some remarkable developments of high colored flowers in certain individual trees. I found one growing near the roadside with flowers of a fairly dark, purplish red, a tint I have never seen before. Another tree I have found which bears blossoms closely approaching scarlet in color. My purpose is to secure cions of these trees and have them grafted, for as flowers they deserve to rank among our fleets. Certainly it is worth while to collect examples of such exceptions so that we can see apple blossoms carried through their wide range of color.—Cor. Garden and Forest.

To Make Walks Working.

A traveler's pipe is among the late inventions. Attached to the bowl is a hook, which may be fastened in a buttonhole of the lid or coat, while a flexible tube communicates with the mouthpiece. The smoker can use this pipe while both hands are free to be otherwise occupied.—Yankee Blade.

Poisonous Fly Bites

We are wont to speak [illegible] as flea bites (which a [illegible] be confounded with fleas [illegible] appears that fly bites [illegible] very serious. It is not the [illegible] warned against, but the [illegible] to be harmless (and [illegible] hold fly It is the old story [illegible] germs again "in the inoculation of [illegible] this little creature, notwithstanding [illegible] weakness of its mandible takes its [illegible]

I possess a little dog against whom two reproaches have long been hurled—first that he is not a sporting dog and secondly that he is useless. It is quite true that his notions of sport are restricted he will not tackle a rat and has some apprehension about tackling a mouse unless it is in a very feeble condition But to see him in pursuit of a bluebottle fly is to witness a chase of the most enlivening description, and half of it up in the air I confess that I often join with him on wet days in this harmless recreation (for he never, by any accident, catches the bluebottle)

When left alone, however he will pursue the common housefly with great success, especially when it is on the window pane Hitherto I have frowned on this recreation as being cruel and even barbarous, for he not only kills but devours these small deer, but I now perceive that he is actuated by benevolence toward the human race —London Illustrated News.

Ants and Aphides.

The ants are on the leaf and walking gently over the aphides, examining them one by one, the latter remaining perfectly motionless. One of them pauses for a long time over an aphis she appears to be caressing it, now stroking now gently flagellating its body with her flexible antennæ At length the insect responds and from one of the pair of little funnels on the back there issues a single drop of a clear fluid, not expelled with force as it often is when the insects relieve themselves of it but gently exuded the ant standing ready to receive it and then proceeding leisurely to suck it up The ants go from one insect to another, sometimes receiving a drop of liquid but often having to pass on disappointed their benefactors living apparently none ready to give in many cases After a time they have exhausted the whole colony, and they go around inquisitively stroking one after the other as if reluctant to leave until they have made sure that there is no more to be got

These aphides are of a species distinct from those on the rose tree, with which the ants have been in all probability previously engaged They differ in shape, color, size and in the shape and length of the nectaries, but the actions of both the giver and the receiver show an intuitive knowledge of each other, which can only be accounted for by an association on both sides reaching back over an immense period during which an intimate relationship must have existed between both classes of insects.—Cornhill Magazine.

A Hungry Man's Dream.

One of the worst evils attending penal servitude is said to be the hunger which assails a man with a healthy appetite during the first few months or years of his imprisonment A man who has just done a long term for forgery says

I used to go to bed every night I ached with hunger I began dreaming of meats and would have thought nothing strange about it had not the same dream come to me every night. The banquet was always the same in the same place and I always had the same place at the table

The exasperating thing about it was that just as the first course was offered I always awoke so that even in my dreams I was not permitted to taste of those incent spread which was nightly placed to me in my sleep

I dreaded to go to bed because the dream tortured me It only made me hungrier and I then understood the agony of Tantalus, the fabled hero who stretched with thirst, and to whose lips the waters were ever coming and receding just as he was in the act of taking a drink.—Boston Globe.

Feeding Nightingales.

As exemplifying the pitch to which Roman epicureanism was carried and indicative of a truly barbaric nature a dish consisting of the tongues alone of some thousands of the favorite songsters of the air was requisitioned at immense cost to gratify the inordinate cravings of one of the emperors. One can hardly avoid the reflection that such a being must have been extremely unfavorable The liver of capon steeped in milk was thought a great delicacy, and of solid meat pork appears to have been most relished

The stanch Roman who did not find his pleasure homeopathically recalled during dinner on a luxurious couch his left reating on his left elbow supported by cushions. Suetonius draws attention to a superb apartment erected by the extravagant Nero, in which his meals were partaken, constructed like a theater with shifting scenes changing with every course.—Chambers' Journal

The Sensitive Tortoise.

Few animals seem more impassive than the tortoise, but those who have watched its movements know that the creature is really very sensitive A few drops of rain will send it home with all speed, even the distant approach of a shower makes it uneasy Hence Gilbert White remarked that his tortoise showed "as much solicitude about the rain as a lady dressed in all her best attire."

Are You Looking For comfortable accommodations for the fall and winter? THE ALTA VISTA, Family Hotel, is better prepared than ever to offer attractions to permanent boarders. Without any reflection upon any hotel or boarding house, the Alta Vista claims to fill a midway place, to possess the best features of both, and to afford greater privacy and independence, greater comforts and convenience than even good boarding house can supply, without the annoyance and disturbing bustle of large transient and commercial hotels

Distinctive hotel features are made as little apparent as possible, while much is introduced to add to the homelike air of the house.

The house is modern, with electric lights and bells, elevator, steam heat, a table which has no superior hereabouts, and efficient service in all departments

We would be pleased to have everyone looking for comfortable accommodations call and inspect our rooms and learn of the advantages the house has to offer

An interesting musical, under the direction of Mrs. B. B. Watts, was given at the Baptist church in Colorado City last evening.

Mr. E. Oscar Hart, manager of the Hotel Hagerman, at Eddy, N. M., and a former Colorado Springs man, is in the city for a few days.

Mr. W. J. Lawrence, superintendent of the Midland railroad, is reported quite ill at his home, on North Tejon street, with typhoid fever.

Regular meeting of Acacia lodge No. 95, A. F. and A. M., this evening at 8 o'clock. Work on the first degree, to which all brethren are invited.

A patent has been granted to Elmer E. Reed of this city for an holder for utensils; also one to Albert Smith for a process of artificial ice manufacture.

Mr. Joseph Tell, a former resident, has returned here for permanent residence. Mr. Tell has been depot policeman at the union depot, Burlington, Ia., for several years.

Dr. J. T. G. Nichols, a prominent physician of Cambridge, Mass., is registered at The Antlers and will remain in the city a few days. Mrs. Nichols accompanies him.

Mr. E. Bignell, superintendent of the northern division of the Burlington, was a visitor in the city yesterday. Mr. Bignell afterward went in his special car to Manitou.

The city clerk has already received over $20,000 in water taxes and the indications are that the total receipts will foot up to $10,000, the largest ever known in the history of the city.

Judge J. C. Bell of Montrose, the Democratic and People's party candidate for congress, is to address the voters in this city next Saturday evening. The meeting will be held in Durkee hall.

The first number of The Business Bulletin, by McDill & Phelps, has been issued. It is neat typographically and well edited. The paper hoists the Republican ticket at the head of its editorial columns.

The members of the Caswell Hoag company met last evening and completed arrangements for the ball to be given on Hallowe'en. It is designed to make this one of the most successful balls ever given by the company.

The Congregational society at Manitou has just paid off a mortgage of $800. This amount was raised by the vigorous efforts of the pastor during the summer. It leaves an indebtedness of but $250 on the $6,000 enlargement to the church.

Dr. and Mrs. D. I. Christopher have issued cards announcing the marriage of their daughter, Mary, to N. Lafon Brinker of Denver. The ceremony will occur at the First Baptist church, Tuesday, Oct. 11, at 8 o'clock p. m.

The school board has provided handsome new cottage organs for the Lowell, Lincoln and Cooke schools, to the end that the singing in these schools may be improved. The money expended was earned by the pupils at the concert last spring.

Messrs. R. R. Taylor, H. A. Ferguson and others returned from their hunting and fishing trip on the White river on Saturday. It was their party that the Denver News reported surrounded by fire and in danger of their lives, but they ridicule the idea. There was a fire on the mountain near them, but it amounted to very little.

The High school cadets are fully organized now and have elected the following officers: Captain, Frank Heron; first lieutenant, Archie Strachan; second lieutenant, Frank Dunnington. The company meets on Tuesdays and Fridays and at the meeting yesterday adopted a constitution and by-laws.

The Congregationalists of Colorado and Wyoming are much interested in the coming meeting of the association to be held in this city beginning Oct. 4. A large attendance is expected and many matters of interest to Congregationalists will be discussed. A number of excursions have been arranged for the entertainment of the visitors, and the Cog road will make a cheap rate.

The water committee of the city council, represented by Alderman Leech and Taylor, gave a hearing in City hall yesterday to several hotel men and others who claimed they were being charged exorbitant rates. Messrs. E. Burnett of The Antlers, E. W. Kent of the Alta Vista, John Simington of the Palmer House, J. A. Hundley and others appeared and urged that their water rates be reduced. The council heard them through, but decided to allow the rates to stand, and the petitioners paid the rate.

Mr. Eaton's Decision.

On the streets of this city yesterday almost every one had words of commendation for Secretary-of-state Eaton's decision in favor of the "white-wings" branch of the Democratic party. The People's party men did not seem to care, and as most of the Democrats here-about are "white-wings" they were satisfied, while the Republicans all declared the decision to be just. A prominent lawyer of the city who states that he has had reason to study the question pretty thoroughly declared Mr. Eaton to be right. His opinion is that the intention of the Australian law is that every man shall know exactly what ticket he is voting. To have recognized the Pattersonian element would have defeated the spirit of the law, although having the state organization of the party they may have been technically right in asking that their ticket be recognized. To place the Pattersonian nominations on a ticket and call them Democratic when they are pledged to oppose the head of the Democratic party would be to deceive many Democrats, and the secretary of state would be aiding in a deception of the people whom he is sworn to protect.

Hon. C. S. Thomas of Denver was about the most unhappy person in the city yesterday morning, when he heard the news, and bitterly denounced the secretary's decision.

Mrs. Adams' Case.

The entire time of the district court yesterday was taken up with the suit of Adams vs. the Rapid Transit company, Judge Holbrook presiding. The morning was occupied in hearing the testimony, which was not completed until noon. In the afternoon Mr. J. K. Vanatta opened the argument for the plaintiff and was followed by Hon. C. S. Thomas for the defense. Judge Belford closed the case for the plaintiff and the case went to the jury at 4 o'clock. An agreement was not reached until 6:30, and the verdict was to the effect that the Rapid Transit company was not guilty of negligence. Mrs. Adams sued the company for $20,000 damages on account of an accident in June, 1891. Her carriage was struck by a rapid transit car and wrecked and she received injuries.

The arguments of Messrs. Thomas and Belford were listened to very closely by the large audience that had assembled in the court room. Judge Belford made a sally at Mr. Thomas during his speech that quite convulsed the court and audience. A short time ago the Denver Republican contained a cartoon of Mr. Thomas representing that gentleman with two faces, one smiling at the Democratic party and another at the People's party. During his argument yesterday he ridiculed one of the witnesses for testifying that he rode forward but was looking backward. Mr. Belford declared that that was not strange for he had recently seen a picture of Mr. Thomas looking both ways at the same time and from the laughter it was evident that most of those present were familiar with it.

The brokerage firms of Proudfit & Edgell and W. H. Coffin & Co. have been consolidated and will hereafter do business under the name, Proudfit, Edgell & Coffin. The offices of the first named firm, in the Hagerman block, will be occupied by the new firm, and they will continue to do a general investment business, handling mining stocks, bonds, etc. Proudfit & Edgell were the first mining brokers in the city and have built up a large business, and Mr. Coffin has become well known to the business men as a member of the firm of Pettengell & Coffin. The new combination is a strong one and will undoubtedly do a large business in its special line.

Why Men Defer Marriages.

The habits of modern young men are antagonistic to that prudence and preparation which make it possible for them to marry at twenty-five. There are many exceptions of course, but it may be safely said that a vast number of the young men who live in our time fill their spare hours with expensive luxuries. It costs them a great deal to dress, and still more to keep up their social engagements. In a score of ways they accustom themselves to ways of life that leave no margin between income and outgo. This having gone on until they are twenty-five it then calls for more resolution than many of them command to begin the sacrifices which accompany the saving of money. Without money they cannot marry.

Not a few greatly exaggerate what it should take two sensible young people to begin life on, and hastily conclude that it would be impossible, on an income of $1,000, to start in comfort. So they put off marriage until after thirty, or do not marry at all; and it is well that such men should remain single. We do not need any such weak files in the coming generation.—John L. Payne in Ladies' Home Journal.

An alarm of fire was turned in from box 45 about 5:30 last evening. The blaze was at the El Paso laundry on Cimarron street between Nevada and Weber and was caused by a defective flue. Upon the arrival of the department the fire was bursting through the roof, but Mr. Woodward, the proprietor, and others had it pretty much under control. The Jackson company turned on a stream and soon had the blaze extinguished. The loss is slight and is covered by insurance.

Business Properties.
One of our clients is going to leave the state, and in order to dispose of choice business property he has listed it with us at fully 20 per cent below its real value. It is on one of the best streets, some good improvements projected for that immediate locality, and it is a bigger snap than this way. $9000.
We have another gilt edged property, on Tejon street, in the center, that pays about 15 per cent. and is improved only with buildings. In a few years, when a new building is put on it, it will be better. It is a good property on the avenue of the city and can be had at value. Fifteen per cent. rents are better than 4 per cent. bank loans. $13,000 cash will secure this. On the remainder a long time will be made.
